Those traits, along with the protection provided by these strong, durable motorcycles, are what make Victory Motorcycles the bike of choice for a rapidly growing number of law enforcement agencies across North America and around the world.

- VIDEO: See why a growing number of law enforcement agencies choose Victory Motorcycles.

The staff at Victory Police Motorcycles equips stock Victory models such as the Cross Country, Cross Roads and Victory Vision with lights, sirens and the law enforcement agency's paint and graphics. That's it. The suspension, steering, and drivetrain of these motorcycles is the same – stock – as on Victory units delivered to dealerships near you.

The Victory motorcycles put in the hands of law enforcement agencies – motorcycles these officers trust their lives to – are not specially modified. At most, a Victory Police Motorcycle is fitted with a skid plate for extra protection – for the vehicle and for the officer who might take cover behind the bike. Otherwise, these are motorcycles that deliver the same great performance, comfort, handling, cargo space and style every rider can enjoy every day.

It's easy to see why Victory Motorcycles are the choice of a growing number of law enforcement agencies – and the choice of more and more motorcycle riders than ever before.
